Verbal Description

This metate fragment has gone through 2 incarnations. First it was a regular metate (I am assuming, based on the faint remains of a leg). Then it broke, was reworked into a rough square, then further used for grinding. The bottom surface is pecked and ground, since the leg stub is ground, ~~this must~~ grinding must have been part of the reshaping. The edges are clipped but not ground down, and the corners are rounded. The working surface is used, smooth, on the raised areas and glossy. Vesicular base. Not drawn. Thickness varies from 4.5 cm to 5.3 cm.
